The 2010 Teaching with Sakai Innovation Award (TWISA)

The award is being sponsored by rSmart and John Wiley & Sons with additional support from the Sakai Foundation. It was designed to promote faculty best practices and innovation in using Sakai for teaching and learning. Although there are many ways in which technology can make the teaching process more efficient or productive, innovative applications of both pedagogy and technology can truly transform the educational experience.

The intent of this award is to highlight examples of educational applications of Sakai which fall into this innovative or transformative category. The kick-off for the 2010 TWISA has started. Visit http://openedpractices.org/twsia

2009 Winners

First Place
Dr. Andrea Crampton
Course: Introduction to Forensic Science
Charles Sturt University
Wagga Wagga NSW Australia

Second Place
Dr. Edith Sheffer
Course: Germany and the World Wars, 1870—1990
Stanford University
Stanford, CA

Honorable Mention
Cherry Stewart
Course: Design Reflective and Interactive eLearning; Online Professional Development
University of New England
Armidale NSW Australia

Dr. Mark Van Dyke
Course: Spring 2008 Public Relation Case Studies; Fall 2008 Communication Capstone
Marist College
Poughkeepsie, NY

The Sakai Foundation is a member-based, non-profit 501(c)(3) corporation engaged in the collaborative design, development and distribution of open-source software for education, research and related scholarly activities. http://sakaiproject.org/portal