

General Information

Welcome to Sakai!

The best place to find general information on Sakai is the Sakai website. ( ★ New to Sakai? )

Overview

This system, Confluence, is a wiki used to coordinate activities and share information within the Sakai community. Confluence was selected for this purpose as it is tightly integrated with Jira, the issue tracking system used to coordinate design and development activities in Sakai.

The community also uses various email lists, and it is highly recommend that anyone with an interest in Sakai join the Announcements list: announcements@collab.sakaiproject.org (join announcement list.) This a very low-volume, read-only list, typically only one or two messages each week (announcement list archive.) Typical content includes the twice-a-month Sakai Newsletter, official release announcements, conference information and calls for presentation proposals, Sakai-related job postings, and other items of broad community interest.

Sakai Community Activities

Listed below are broad areas of community activity of general interest to a wide audience. These are good starting points for learning more about or engaging in the Sakai community. Most community activities have a presence on Confluence and a matching email list.
