These are the implementation notes are here to document decisions that were made during the development process and clarify implementations and technical choices.

Implementation Notes

- Calendar security
 - The breeze link tool will attempt to create a calendar event which represents a breeze meeting when the meeting is created in the tool itself. This action should only proceed if the user has permission for the calendar in the context where the breeze link tool is deployed (current context should work). If it cannot proceed because of insufficient permissions a message should be displayed to the user which indicates no event was added to the calendar. If the operation succeeds, an event should be added and the success message displayed for the user indicating the event was added and the meeting created in breeze.
