"Description"

This is a place to house commentary, suggestions, and additional raw source materials (interviews, discussions, conversations, etc.) that are useful for formulating a common understanding about Design Lenses. It's intended that these are essentially primary sources and so may be raw.

Those interested in participating in a special phone conference call on this topic should express interest here. The call will be recorded with Etherpad style notes as well.

We'll work to find a common time for those interested:
