

Conduct load tests that reflect actual usage

System Administrators need the variety of usage data described in these use cases to design and conduct load tests that reflect actual system usage.